Hojeong Lee – Two Songs/ Zwei Lieder
28.03. – 27.04.2024

Hojeong Lee's artistic exploration delves into the intricacies of communication, spanning from the written word to the language of touch and sight. Since childhood, Lee has viewed natural elements such as grasses, field plants, and forests as anthropomorphic figures, translating their lines and curves into evocative pencil drawings. Her works, at times abstract and at others figurative, dance on the threshold of ambiguity, inviting viewers into a dialogue that persists even in the absence of the artist. Building upon this thematic foundation, Lee's current focus intersects with the concept of „Lied“ (Song), as evidenced by the titled pieces ‚Sing.‘ Through their upcoming exhibition, „Zwei Lieder“ (Two Songs), Lee seeks to evoke a sense of ambiguity, likening it to a singer's performance and the rhythmic exchange inherent in human interaction. By intertwining these elements, Lee aims to offer viewers a glimpse into the multifaceted nature of communication, subtly weaving together threads of perception, expression, and connection.

Circles,
more of indented and crooked,
bubbles,
the semi-transparent,
exposed or appeared,
– that of the alluring, attracted and more obsessed,
distributing but not sharing,
the secrets,

and
the observer
always with
interests,

looking,
taking,
listening and questioning again,-

with
interests, the certain,
but only for now,
now,

and-now, repeating to come back,
circling,
coming back,
back to now,
the difference only the spring flower may have seen.

Be
seen,
here
and
there,
but come back to look,
to take and to hear. Hearing may forget, but remembering one
day with more interest
